

As Virginians we cannot but rejoice at the success of the Piedmont Life Insurance Company of this State, organized and controlled entirely by Virginians. As evidence of how this Southern favorite stands, we with pleasure transfer to our columns, the following from the Augusta, Georgia, Constitutionalist of July 9th. The article will be read with feelings of pride by all who feel an interest in the growth and prosperity of home institutions:

CHEERING SOUTHERN NEWS.—It must be gratifying to every true Southern heart to be able to chronicle evidences of returning vitality in our dear, sunny clime; to see confidence and brotherly love uniting with honest rivalry in successful efforts to build up our shattered fortunes and lay the foundation of our future prosperity and independence; and to witness the happy consummation of Southern enterprises marching on with united front, gathering strength step by step, wakening up the latent energies of our noble, but depressed people, and proving that all we lack is confidence in ourselves.

A card appeared in the Constitutionalist, of July 1st, over the signature of R. A. Alston, Superintendent of Agencies of the Southern Life Insurance Company, headed "What Southern Life Insurance Companies Can Do." We are gratified to acknowledge the spirit of courtesy and kindly feeling which pervades that article towards the Piedmont, of Virginia. In return, the Piedmont extends to him the open hand of Southern fellowship, and wishes the Southern Life God-speed in the great work of Southern rejuvenization. It was a noble work of one agent—forty-five policies in two days—covering $323,000 risks and $20,942 in premiums. But the Piedmont is still ahead, as the following statement from her President will show:

Rev. R. N. Pool, Agent of the Piedmont, procured in one day five policies, on which the cash premiums were over $17,000, and in addition 22 policies on which premiums were $3,212, the whole covering risks amounting to $121,500, and premiums of $20,942. This was one day's work. The same agent, a short time before, sent in 33 applications in one day, on which the premiums were $5,698, so that two day's work amounted to $9, or 15 ahead of the Southern Life, and the premiums to $25,910, or $5,000 income in one day over the Southern Life. This same agent has more than once done as well, as to numbers, but not amount.

Messrs. Jefferson & Ransom, Agents of Piedmont, in South Carolina, have done quite as well in all respects, but as this is a firm, we will not count their work against one agent.

We wish both these companies all the success they merit at the hands of the Southern public, but bear in mind the "sturdy" Virginia Company is in the lead, and still pressing onward with cautious, rapid strides.

If Southern men, and those who mean to identify themselves with Southern interests, come from what clime they may, will determine to keep their money at home, encourage and sustain Southern institutions, and honestly, and like true men, do their duty to themselves and their families, the time is not far distant, when, with all the vigor of renewed youth glorifying in the ample resources with which Heaven has blessed her, the South shall yet be proclaimed the garden spot of the world.

T. STANLEY BECKWITH,
Gen'l Ag't Piedmont Life.

Augusta, Ga., July 8th 1869.

We also add with pride the following evidence of the continued promptness of "The Piedmont," taken from the New Orleans Commercial Bulletin of July 9th, 1869:

THE PIEDMONT LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.—We call the attention of our readers to the correspondence published below. It will be of more than ordinary interest in view of the very short time elapsing after the insurance was effected, before the sum and interest paid of the application.

"Mr. J. G. Logan, whose death has been widely known, and so deeply regretted by his large circle of relations and friends throughout the State, insured his life in the Piedmont Life Insurance Company March last, and made one policy for $100,000. About two weeks thereafter he died, leaving a widow and three young children, to whom he had made good provision in the policy, which had been paid of them as promptly."

We have now a more interesting illustration of the benefits of the insurance policy, than we have seen elsewhere. It shows that the policy was paid of them as promptly."

on his life policy in the Piedmont Company for $100,000.

Very truly yours,
DABNEY H. MAURY,
Gen'l Agent Piedmont Company.
Office N. O. Journal of Medicine, No. 2, Carondelet street,
July 7, 1869.

Gen. D. H. Maury, Gen'l Ag't Piedmont Life Ins. Co.:
Dear General—Permit me, in acknowledging the full and satisfactory settlement of the ten annual life policy of ten thousand dollars in favor of the widow of my brother, Mr. J. G. Logan, to express my thanks to the company for the prompt payment they have made, and for the liberal right to the ninety days delay. Please accept, also, for yourself my sincere appreciation of the warm personal interest you have shown in hastening this matter.

Very respectfully yours,
SAMUEL LOGAN,
Attorney-in-fact for Mrs. S. C. F. Logan.

The Great Virginia Triumph.
The Conservative of Virginia, to their own surprise and to the utter astonishment of their jealous opponents, carried the State in the elections of last Tuesday by a majority of forty thousand! The organs of every party are nearly always prone, before an election, to speak extravagantly of its prospects; excitement and a desire to arouse the enthusiasm of their friends are apt to betray them into exaggeration; but we do not think that any of the Conservative papers of Virginia predicted or even expressed the opinion, at any period of the late sharp and active campaign in that State, that the Conservatives could possibly win such a sweeping and overwhelming victory as they have won. Both parties alike are disappointed; the one is lifted up and exulted by a happy disappointment, and the other mortified and cast down by a most unhappy one. The triumph of the Conservatives is greater than the most sanguine of them hoped, the defeat of the Radicals far worse than even the most timid of them feared. This result in Virginia will create a profound sensation at Washington. It is undoubtedly at this time the subject of the anxious consideration of the high officers of the Government. They are thinking and debating as to what shall be done. They cannot but regard the situation with alarm. The administration, near the close of the Virginia struggle, openly interposed in behalf of the Wells party, the Jacobins, and caused semi-official proclamation to be made that they should have the patronage and other support of the Federal Government, and it is not to be expected or even hoped, that the administration, after having thus committed itself and staked, as we may say, its reputation before the country upon the issue in Virginia, will quietly and with no countervailing effort permit matters in that State to go on in their present adverse course. What they are likely to do we know not; what evil thing they are not capable of doing, when the impelling motive is strong enough, nobody knows. At any rate, Virginia, we apprehend, will be made to feel that she is not yet reconstructed, and that when she shall be or whether she shall be at all may depend upon future events. Absurd and even monstrous as the idea seems, it may turn out, that after her having been authorized by Congress and President Grant to vote upon the test oath, clause of her new Constitution, and after having voted that clause down by a majority literally tremendous, the administration will require this very test-oath shall be administered to all persons elected to her Legislature, so that her first Legislature under the new order of things, with all the Conservatives elected to it shut out, shall be a body that will do the very worst that Radicalism can do to start her at the outset upon the wrong track and render her departure from it a difficulty or an impossibility. This would indeed be monstrous, but she may as well remember that monstrous agencies are at work against her. It is not unlikely, however, that she may conclude that she can afford to bear as much as the administration can afford to inflict.

The influences of the extraordinary result of the Virginia election will be very powerful in the two other unreconstructed States in which elections are to be held. If the elections in those States were to take place now, Conservatism would prevail in both of them even more overwhelmingly than it has prevailed in Virginia, for the Conservatives in both of them would be incited not only by every consideration which has incited their brethren in Virginia, but also by the stirring example of the latter. But President Grant has not designated the days for the elections in Mississippi and Texas, although a hundred times requested to do so. In answer to all requests upon the subject, he has said that he should wait till after the election in Virginia. The answer amounted to a declaration, that, by the character of the vote in Virginia, he would decide upon the election in regard to the two other States. It was an immense declaration, but he made it and he will unflinchingly execute it. Mississippi and Texas will not be allowed to hold their elections preparatory to reconstruction until the administration shall have had time to adopt what measures it may think practicable for securing results different from that which resulted in Virginia. Grant and his associates will make a high price for their reconstruction, and they will not be allowed to take less.

FOR SALE.
Our business having increased so much that we find ourselves justified in furnishing our mill anew entirely with the most modern machinery of larger capacity than the old, we offer the following named articles at very reduced prices, some of which is as good as any in use in the District. Persons needing such will find it to their interest to examine what we offer at much less than real value.
1 Four Foot Burr Stone, (runner,) as good as new, never having been used but very little, and is of as good grit as any Burr Stone in the country—will be sold at a bargain.
1 Pair four foot Corn Stones, considerably worn, but would serve at mill doing ordinary good business for a long time. The grit is the very best, and makes excellent meal—will be sold very low.
1 good Smut Machine. This is a rare chance to buy a very good Sautter, at less than half the original cost.
2 Mill Spindles, with Patent Collars and Balance Irons, complete, all new—will be sold cheap.
1 Cogwheel, in segments, (new)—will be sold at less than half the original cost.
2 Pinions, (new) to run with the above Cogwheel, which will work on the mill spindles alluded to above. Will be sold for less than half the original cost.
2 Cast Iron Water Wheels, of a good pattern, very cheap.
Bolting Cloth, as good as new, at a bargain.
Wheat Screens—one rolling, the other eccentric motion. For sale cheap. These are as good as new.
Elevator Cups, Belts, Boxes, and Pulleys, all complete—not half worn, offered for "a song."
Besides the above, various other articles, which will be sold low.
